Blood runs cold in Central City and where Stone goes, death is around every corner. Prime Suspect When the singer Ralph Morgan is shot to death in a bar while performing on stage, Davis Brown turns to Randall Stone for help. Stone soon learns he was shot with Browns gun, but the killer left no fingerprint on the weapon. Now, Private Eye Stone faces twenty-seven suspects and only four hours to catch a killer or an innocent man will go down on a murder rap. And the clock is ticking. Ruthless Killer On his way back from a wedding in Battle Creek, Tom Hall is arrested for hitting and killing a young boy on his way to school. When the state police find Tom, hes lying in the front seat passed out from drinking too much. Jim Taylor, Toms attorney, phones Private Eye Randall Stone to investigate the accident. After questioning Tom, Stone is on the lookout for a red-headed woman wearing a yellow Milly Strapless Printed Trapeze Gown that drove the car. Now Stone must go one-on-one with a ruthless killer to free an innocent man. The Key to Murder The M.E. has placed the time of death at about 3:00 A.M. this morning. The weapon was three rags tied together to form a strangler noose. The room was locked and chained from the inside, and the door was forced open by the housekeeper and Miss Lois McCoy. The only entrance beside that was this window leading to the fire escape. But they didnt find any footprints in the mud down the alley.
